A STRATEGY OF SUSTAINABILITY

We Aim to Provide a Reliable and Long-Term Supply of Green Helium to Meet a Growing North American Market

North American Helium (NAH) is the leading company focused on exploration and production of helium from underground fields of inert nitrogen in North America.

NAH currently produces over 5% of helium supply in North America and is actively advancing new projects.

The Company currently has seven producing facilities on its land position of over 9 million acres in SW Saskatchewan, including Canada's largest facility (Battle Creek) located near Consul, SK.

Providing a Positive Economic Impact

- NAH has invested over $300 million in exploration and development activities in Saskatchewan, primarily through seismic and drilling operations.
- NAH has ~45 employees and contractors - many of whom reside in the communities in which we operate throughout SW Saskatchewan.

North American Helium intends to be active in the exploration, development, and production of helium for many years.

We believe strongly in establishing and sustaining active involvement within the communities where we work.
